The city's East Gloucester School Building Committee has settled on two of nine sites for a replacement for the East Gloucester and Veterans Memorial elementary schools: Mattos Field, adjacent to Veterans, or along Schoolhouse Road, adjacent to the Gloucester Crossing development and Green Street.

The new school would be built on one of the sites — whittled from nine potential school sites and building options — if voters support and fund the project at a special election tentatively pegged for the spring.

The two sites were chosen for the potential for accommodate 440 students, the merged enrollments of East Gloucester and Veterans and the educational strengths a proposed three-story school could provide.
